Hi, Dale.

You might be interested in this. As indicated, at the moment plans are still soft for the July Board of Forestry meeting, but it may include public comment from Mr. Owen.

Subject: Pesticide comments at July bd meeting?

Hi Marvin and John –

As I mentioned to Marvin the other day, Day Owen, of the Pitchfork Rebellion group in Lane County, has asked for 10 minutes during public comment at the July 30 Board meeting in Eugene to talk about pesticides, particularly drift. You'll recall this is the group that generated a large number of comments during the last issue scan.

The 10 minutes would include video that Day says documents helicopters spraying directly over fish-bearing streams, and spraying in foggy, windy or rainy weather, in Lane County.

He's further asked that we try to schedule his comments any time on the agenda after 10; he is a farmer and says he must do his milking in the early morning.

I've told him that we could probably accommodate his request to some extent, but that plans for that meeting are still coming together and I would let him know.

He has also asked to make a presentation at the pesticides workshop that the Board discussed in April. The draft agenda doesn't appear to lend itself to that. I can tell him that the workshop is still in planning and although it may not include a public comment section, public comment would be taken as part of any Board action.

Thanks,
-- Dan
